PREAMBLE

An Institutional Policy on the Evaluation of Student Achievement (IPESA) is an official document describing how an institution will ensure the fair and equitable assessment of student learning. The IPESA applies to both regular (DCS) and continuing education (ACS) programs. In-person and online courses are both subject to this policy.

The Campus Notre-Dame-de-Foy regularly revises its IPESA. This revision was completed with the following considerations in mind:

- The CER requires each college, after consulting the Academic Council, to adopt and apply an Institutional Policy on the Evaluation of Student Achievement (CER, s. 25). The Board of Directors must then adopt it before it is implemented;
- Each college is responsible for evaluating student achievement before awarding an Attestation of College Studies or making a recommendation to the Ministry that a Diploma of College Studies be awarded to a student.
- In the spirit of our Educational Project, “the college relies on the intellectual curiosity, autonomy, perseverance, commitment and self-betterment of our students and all of our staff, near or far, who contribute.”

It is the social responsibility of an institution like ours to have an Institutional Policy on the Evaluation of Student Achievement, to make it known to the various stakeholders, to implement it and to evaluate its application.

PURPOSE

The IPESA's purpose is to ensure CNDF students are evaluated in a way that is transparent, fair, equitable, consistent and equivalent.

To ensure student learning assessments at CNDF are transparent and fair:

- a) the student must know what the teachers, the Department of Studies and the Ministry expect of them with regard to their learning assessment;
- b) the teacher must know what the Department of Studies expects of them regarding the student learning assessment;
- c) the Department of Studies must know how teachers and departments carry out their respective responsibilities in assessing student learning.

To ensure student learning assessments are equitable, consistent and equivalent:

- a) the teachers of the same department and the teachers who teach in the same program work together to develop their method of evaluating student learning;
- b) if necessary, the Department of Studies shall consult with the Academic Council on the application of this policy.

OBJECTIVES

The CNDF's IPESA objectives are:

- a) to present the institution's approach to student learning assessments;
- b) to establish the shared rights and responsibilities regarding the student learning assessment;
- c) to clarify the institutional definition of course plans and how they are coordinated and approved;
- d) to establish the rules, conditions, procedures and actions to implement regarding the student learning assessment, including mechanisms for appeal;
- e) to specify the certification process for studies;
- f) to establish the conditions and criteria for evaluating the application of the IPESA.

2.1 Student learning assessment

In education, a learning assessment is an evaluation of how well a student has acquired the competencies required in the courses or internships. Formative and summative assessments are part of teaching. They have a complementary role and the balance between the two forms of assessments is essential.

2.2 Formative assessment

A formative assessment lays the groundwork for the summative assessment. It supports the student's learning by providing feedback to both the teacher and the student regarding the learning progress.

Even if it is not considered in the final grade, to be effective, the formative assessment must be relatively formalized for students to pay proper attention to it. The teacher must inform students of the purpose and usefulness of formative assessments. This will help students take responsibility for their own learning and motivate them by helping them better understand the relevance and importance of these assessments. From the very first college session, this teaches students the importance of participating in the various exercises. Therefore, each course includes formative assessments.

2.3 Summative assessments

Summative assessments measure the degree to which a student has acquired the required competencies. At the end of the session, a summative assessment is used to certify whether a course, internship or the Comprehensive program examination (CPE) has been passed or failed.

2.4 What assessment activities should evaluate

Assessment activities must evaluate competency acquisition that is specific to a course or internship.

A grade of 60% signifies the minimum achievement of the standards associated with this course or internship.

3.1 Sharing of rights and responsibilities

3.1.1 The Board of Directors

- a) The Board of Directors shall adopt, after consulting the Academic Council, an IPESA and ensure its implementation (CER, s. 25).

3.1.2 The Department of Studies

As the party responsible for the application of this policy, the Director of Studies or a person designated by the Director,

Regarding the assessment and certification:

- a) responds to the student learning assessment;
- b) produces statistics on passing grades;
- c) ensures the imposition of a comprehensive examination for each program leading to a Diploma of College Studies (CER, s. 25);
- d) ensures the application of any uniform test imposed by the Ministry in all subject areas included in the component of general education (CER, s. 26);
- e) manages requests to review grades (IPESA, chap. 5);
- f) manages the certification of studies (IPESA, chap. 6);
- g) manages, where applicable, any specific agreement regarding the learning assessment;

Regarding the application of the policy:

- a) makes the IPESA text available to students and teachers;
- b) ensures the effectiveness of the learning assessment, review and policy compliance mechanisms (IPESA, chap. 7);

- e) manages absences from an assessment (IPESA, s. 4.11);
- f) addresses student dissatisfaction with the IPESA (IPESA, s. 5.3).

3.1.3 The Department

Teachers in the same department, under the responsibility of the department coordinator:

- a) develop a framework for each course within the department, ensure that it is updated and submit it for approval to the Department of Studies;
- b) coordinate course plans according to the program approach, pursued objectives, contents, evaluation methods, learning evaluation schedule, etc., ensure correspondence with the framework and submit them for approval to the Department of Studies;
- c) recommend the approval of course plans to the Department of Studies by the date prescribed by the Department;
- d) develop the CPE, determine the course(s) or internship(s) where this test will be used and make sure that the general education is integrated into it (IPESA, s. 4.10.4.2);
- e) working with a PAA, perform the follow-up required for the recognition of educational achievements;
- f) develop the Departmental Policy on the Evaluation of Student Achievement (DPESA) and submit it for approval to the Department of Studies;
- g) inform students of the rules relating to the learning assessment.

3.1.4 The Teacher

- a) Learns about all aspects of the evaluation of student achievement through this policy and apply its rules;
- b) adopts the IPESA and apply the rules;

Regarding the summative assessment, the teacher:

- a) develops and presents their course plan to the department in accordance with the framework and this policy, has it approved by the Department of Studies and makes it available on the school portal and presents it to students at the first class;
- b) consults with colleagues on student achievement evaluation activities to ensure equivalency for the same course taught by more than one teacher;
- c) prepares and teaches their course according to the terms and conditions set out in their course plan and assesses and measures their students' achievement according to the course plan and this policy;
- d) develops tools to evaluate student achievement to measure the acquisition of competency in a course or internship;
- e) corrects all evaluations, oral or written, and enters the results (IPESA, s. 4.10);

- f) makes a clear judgment on whether a course was passed or failed;
- g) administers and evaluates the CPE if this test is placed within a course or internship under their responsibility.

Regarding the formative assessment, the teacher:

- a) prepares and administers formative assessment activities.

3.1.5 The Student

The student has the right to:

- a) a fair and equitable learning assessment;
- b) information that provides regular and satisfactory feedback on their progress, difficulties, weaknesses and absences;
- c) a confidential academic record (IPESA, s. 4.1);
- d) a review of their grades when they believe they have been treated unfairly (IPESA, s. 5.1).

The student:

- a) reads the course plan and asks the teacher about anything they find unclear;
- b) learns about the learning assessment by reading and complying with this policy;
- c) participates in every kind of learning assessment laid out in the course plans;
- d) regularly checks their grades and absences on the school portal;
- e) takes the CPE required for the DCS (IPESA, s. 4.10.4);
- f) participates in any uniform test imposed by the Ministry as any part of the common general education (IPESA, s. 4.10.5).

3.2 The Course Plan

The Department of Studies is responsible for having each teacher for each course prepare a detailed course plan that corresponds with the framework for that course, the CER (s.20) and this policy.

The elements to be included in the course plan are set out in Appendix A of this Policy and form an integral part thereof.

The course plan must be given to the students of a course group and deposited on the school portal no later than the first class. This document is a commitment made by the teacher to the college and students to deliver the course as advertised and in accordance with the course framework, the CER and this policy. The course plan is also a work tool for the teacher and a guide for the student. Furthermore, it is understood that the course plan applies in a context where the teacher enjoys professional latitude given the particular dynamics of a specific group.

However, this recognition should not substantially alter defining elements of the course plan, but rather allow elements, in some cases, to be altered from the original intention. Exceptionally, if the teacher wants to make significant changes (e.g., the weighting, nature or length of an assessment), they must receive prior approval from the Department of Studies.

4.1 Confidentiality of the student's academic record

The contents of a student's academic record, including their grades, may not be communicated to persons or organizations outside the CNDP without the student's written permission, except to the Ministry or to the student's parents if the student is a minor. This authorization must be recorded in the student's file.

4.2 Withdrawing from a course

A student who wishes to withdraw from a course must do so by completing the form provided for this purpose before the date prescribed and published by the college. This date is set according to the Ministry's current regulations. The completed form must be submitted to the Service du Cheminement de et l'Organisation Scolaires (SCOS). The student must first meet with a PAA to properly assess the consequences of such a step on their academic career.

A student who stops attending a course after the withdrawal deadline will continue to have the course on their schedule. The cumulative grade obtained during CNDP's attendance period will be included on their transcript.

4.3 Equivalence, substitution and exemption

"Equivalence," "substitution" and "exemption" requests for a course must be made to a PAA ten days before the course withdrawal deadline. Students must provide all the documents required to analyze their application. The PAA shall consult with the relevant department, if necessary, and take the necessary steps to process the request. The student is required to attend the course until the answer to their application is rendered.

4.3.1 Equivalence (EQ)

A student who demonstrates that they have achieved the objectives of a course through their extracurricular achievements or through their previous education may be granted an equivalence for this course by the Department of Studies.

The student must meet with a PAA to find out the terms and conditions and obtain the application form, if applicable. When the application is approved, "EQ" shall be entered on the student's transcript and it entitles them to the credits associated with the course. The supporting documents must be kept in the student's file.

4.3.2 Substitution (SU)

The Department of Studies may grant a substitution for a course to a student demonstrating that they have achieved the course objectives through the successful completion of another college-level course.

The student must meet with a PAA to find out the terms and conditions and obtain the application form, if applicable. When the application is approved, “SU” shall be entered on the student’s transcript. The supporting documents must be kept in the student’s file.

4.3.3 Exemption (EX)

The Department of Studies may grant an exemption for a course when a health specialist clearly demonstrates that the student will not be able to achieve the course objectives at any time during their studies. However, the achievement of the program’s objectives must not be compromised.

The student in this situation must meet with a PAA to find out the terms and conditions and obtain the application form, if applicable. When the application is approved, “EX” shall be entered on the student’s transcript. This designation does not entitle the student to the credits for this course. However, the course does not have to be replaced by another one. The supporting documents must be kept in the student’s file.

4.4 Temporary incomplete (TI)

“Temporary Incomplete” may be entered on a student’s transcript for a course when, due to special circumstances, a teacher cannot report the final course grade to the SDOS at the end of the session. The teacher shall only make this entry if an agreement has been reached with the student regarding the procedures for submitting or completing missing evaluations. This entry must be promptly corrected to reflect the Ministry’s current regulations. If the final grade is still not available at the end of the next session (excluding the summer session), the teacher must give a grade of zero (0) to all non-completed evaluations and communicate the new grade to the SDOS.

4.5 Incomplete (IN)

“Incomplete” may be entered on the student’s transcript when the student demonstrates that they are unable to complete one or more courses for a serious reason or for a reason beyond their control and the withdrawal deadline determined by the Ministry has already passed. The absence should be of three weeks or more. If there are less than three weeks left in the session and a temporary incomplete is impossible, an incomplete could be accepted. A specialist must clearly confirm the student’s inability to complete the course. Canadian students outside Québec who consult a specialist outside of Québec in Canada must be able to prove that the specialist has a valid right to practise.

Students in this situation or their legal representative, in the event that the student is unfit, must contact a PAA to find out the terms and conditions and obtain the application form. The request will be analyzed and the answer will be communicated to the student. When the application is approved, “IN” shall be entered on the student’s transcript. The supporting documents must be kept in the student’s file. The student must subsequently resume the entire course.

Any request for an incomplete made for a session that has already been over for more than one year will be automatically denied.

4.6 Ethics

As an educational institution that cultivates values such as intellectual rigour, honesty and uprightness, CNDF considers plagiarism and cheating to be major failures in the spirit of its educational project. CNDF seeks to develop community spirit among its students, in particular, to promote ethical positions through concrete behaviours.

4.6.1 Plagiarism, cheating

In an in-class or out-of-class learning assessment activity, any plagiarism or cheating, any attempt at plagiarism or cheating and any collaboration in plagiarism or cheating may result in a grade of zero (0) for the full assessment in question and not only for the section in which the plagiarism was detected.

CNDF defines plagiarism as:

Attributing or presenting the words of another as one’s own, i.e., taking part or the entirety of an author’s text without putting it in quotation marks, when the words are taken as is or without mentioning the source (full reference)¹.

Plagiarism concerns all document types: texts, data, tables, graphics, images, website, etc.

Specific examples of plagiarism can be found in Appendix B.

CNDF defines cheating as:

Any dishonest practice of concealing, falsifying or consulting a person or document (where prohibited) in connection with a summative assessment is considered cheating.

¹ With reference to the current citation standards indicated in the Guide de Présentation des Travaux du CNDF.

CNDF defines collaboration with plagiarism or cheating as:

Helping a student commit an act of plagiarism or cheating, either by providing answers to an assessment or by providing unauthorized material during an assessment activity.

Specific examples of cheating or collaborating in plagiarism or cheating can be found in Appendix B.

4.6.2 Reporting procedure

The teacher must report any attempt at plagiarism or cheating or any collaboration with plagiarism or cheating to the Department of Studies by completing the “Plagiarism or Cheating Report” form (see Appendix C) as soon as possible after the event. If a student witnesses plagiarism or cheating, they must report it to their teacher as soon as possible. Except for in exceptional situations, the report must be made before the grade is given to the student. The Department of Studies will analyze the file, taking into account the IPESA’s rules and the documentation provided by the teacher². The Department of Studies shall then inform the parties of its decision.

4.6.3 Disciplinary measures

Consequently, any plagiarism or cheating, any attempt at plagiarism or cheating, any collaboration with plagiarism or cheating shall engender the following consequences (in addition to potentially failing the course and the consequences of this failure on subsequent sessions):

1. First offence: A penalty will be applied, up to a grade of zero (0) for this work or assessment. The Department of Studies shall send a warning to the student, informing them of the applied penalty. A copy of this warning shall be included in the student’s file.
2. Second offence: The Department of Studies shall send a second warning to the student and inform them that they have received a grade of zero (0) for the course and that they are expelled from the course in which they plagiarized or cheated. This second offence may have occurred in another course or session. This second warning constitutes a final warning. A copy of this warning shall be included in the student’s file.

² The assessment methods, the copy belonging to the student(s) in question and the correction grid.

3. Third offence: The Department of Studies shall make a record of the process and inform the student that they are expelled from CNDF. It shall send them a notice to that effect. A copy of this notice shall be included in the student's file. After two years, the student may re-enroll with special conditions imposed on them.

For the application penalties, the period between the first warning and expulsion is not taken into account.

4.6.4 Plagiarism or Cheating Review Committee

A Review Committee will be formed in the event of litigation or complex cases, or at the request of the Department of Studies. This Committee will be composed of one of the two teachers delegated by the Academic Council and who are not involved in the dispute, two members of the Department of Studies and one student delegated by the GSA. This student will act as an observer. The teacher and the student have the right to be heard, if they so wish. The Committee's decision shall be final and irrevocable.

4.7 Passing Grade

A passing grade for a course is 60% and it reflects the minimum achievement of the standards associated with a course or internship.

For courses where a professional skills certificate is awarded, the requirements for obtaining this certificate are specified in the course plan.

4.8 Course and internship attendance

CNDF considers attendance to be a very important factor in academic success and a condition for learning. That is why class attendance is highly recommended. CNDF contributes to this success by putting in place measures to promote attendance without taking away the primary responsibility of the student.

The student who misses a course or part of a course must make up for the missed material themselves. No class attendance or points are awarded or removed.

As an exception, when course attendance and participation are essential to obtaining the required competence and explicitly linked to the Ministry's objectives and standards, the course plan shall specify the required attendance rate to successfully pass the course. The procedures for applying this article are defined in the DPESA and are also included in the course plan.

Students who complete an internship must respect the schedule established by the department concerned. Missed hours must be made up for, if applicable, in accordance with the terms and conditions specified in the DPESA and the intern's guide. A student who does not complete the mandatory number of hours may fail.

The teachers record absences and enter them on the school portal on a weekly basis.

4.9 Class absences and late arrivals

4.9.1 Student absences

Attendance is taken at the beginning of each class. Late students are responsible for meeting with the teacher immediately after the class to give their reasons and, possibly, have the absence removed from their record. The teacher has the right to refuse class entry to late students.

4.9.2 Teacher absences

If a teacher is not on time at the first-class period, the student must wait ten (10) minutes before leaving the classroom. If a student has two or more consecutive class periods, they must show up for each period, unless the teacher's name appears on the teacher absence bulletin board or on the school online portal.

4.10 Evaluation of Student Achievement and giving out grades

The teacher must hand out the evaluations in advance.

No later than on the day of the evaluation activity, the teacher must inform the student of the weight given to the questions or parts of the evaluation and shall ensure a weight proportional to the content taught as provided for in the course plan.

Except in a situation approved by the Department of Studies, corrected evaluations must be accompanied by a completed correction grid and given to the student.

4.10.1 During the session

To help the student track their progress, a copy of any summative assessment corrected during the session, with the exception of long assignments, must be provided to the student no later than ten (10) business days after the work was submitted or the evaluation completed and no later than five (5) business days before the date of the final evaluation.

If an agreement is made between the Department of Studies and the teacher, exceptions may be made to this rule.

Thus, for all courses, the score of any evaluation must be entered on the school portal within ten (10) business days of the evaluation.

At least 10% of the student's grade must be registered on the school portal by at least the sixth week of classes and a cumulative grade of at least 25% of the final grade must be entered in the grade book before the ninth week of classes.

Any exceptions to this rule, for example intensive courses, must be approved by the Department of Studies.

4.10.2 Final evaluation

Each course includes a final evaluation that demonstrates the student's proficiency. The value of the final evaluation should not exceed an actual value of 60% of the session total or be less than 40%. Exceptions can be made when pedagogically justified and upon approval by the Department of Studies.

When the final assessment includes a group project, the teacher must clearly attest to the competence of each student. Except when approved by the Department of Studies, the portion allocated to group evaluations must not exceed 40% of the final evaluation score.

Each session, the teacher must enter the final grades of each of their groups online, in accordance with the Department of Studies and SDOS directives.

4.10.3 Double pass threshold

In some cases, when explicitly linked to the Ministry's objectives and standards, the student may be subject to a double threshold rule for passing. To pass a course, in addition to achieving an overall grade of 60% or higher, the student must obtain at least 60% on the course's final evaluation. If the student fails the final evaluation, the school portal will only indicate the final grade of this evaluation, without calculating the grade for the entire session.

Multi-threshold evaluations must be pre-approved by the Department of Studies. When approved, they must be specified in the course plan and the grade that will be assigned in case of failure must be indicated.

4.10.4 Comprehensive program examination (CPE)

4.10.4.1 CPE definition

Students enrolled in a program leading to the DCS are subjected to a comprehensive examination to assess the students' achievement of the set of objectives and standards determined for that program; this test must be passed to obtain the DCS (CER, s. 25 and 32).

Instead of evaluating the acquisition of competency "course by course", this examination aims to assess the integration of the competencies acquired throughout the program, taking into account the contributing disciplines and general education.

4.10.4.2 CPE development

This examination was designed to take into account the objectives and standards determined by the Ministry and the exit profile given in each program's description. It can take various forms and is included in a learning activity at the end of the program within one or more courses or internships. However, the evaluation and comprehensive aspects must be explicit.

The form of this examination shall be specified in each program's description and in the course or internship plan(s) where this CPE is included.

The examination is developed by the department responsible for the program; it is administered and evaluated by the teacher(s) responsible for the course(s) or internship(s) in which it is included.

4.10.4.3 CPE admission

To be eligible for the CPE, the student must have passed or be on track to pass all of the specific courses in their program of study.

4.10.4.4 The CPE grade

The CPE grade will appear on the student's transcript as Pass (P) or Fail (F).

4.10.5 Ministerial uniform examination (language of instruction)

Students shall be subjected to a uniform examination imposed by the Ministry and this test must be passed to obtain a Diploma of College Studies (CER, s. 26 and 32). The Department of Studies shall ensure the application of any uniform examinations imposed by the Ministry.

4.10.6 Evaluation of courses taught online

Online courses must be delivered synchronously. The terms of participation are indicated in the course plan. Online courses follow the same learning evaluation rules as courses taught in the traditional classroom. The class must respect the number of course contact hours.

4.11 Absence from a summative assessment

A student who does not attend a summative assessment shall receive a grade of zero (0) for that assessment. Exceptions to this rule are dealt with by the Department of Studies.

By exception, we mean an absence for one of the following reasons:

- An illness that has been confirmed by a medical note proving the student's inability to be in class;
- An accident, with supporting evidence;
- The death of a close relative, with supporting evidence;
- A summons to court, with supporting evidence;
- Delegation to a provincial, national or international event, such as an athletic competition, music, etc., with supporting evidence.

The student must submit proof of absence within five (5) business days after the assessment.

An assessment missed by a student with a justified absence must be taken, under the same conditions, within a reasonable time.

4.12 Self-assessment and peer evaluation

Self-assessment and peer evaluation can be part of the learning evaluation. Students need to be aware of their own progress and be able to situate their performance against standards of success. However, the teacher who conducts this type of evaluation activity remains responsible for the summative assessment. The grade given to this type of activity should not exceed 10% of the session total, except in cases approved by the Department of Studies.

4.13 Language correction

Each teacher must take into account spelling, grammar, syntax, vocabulary and punctuation errors when correcting assignments and evaluations. The teacher can remove up to 10% of the points in assignments and evaluations. However, for any work completed outside of the classroom and that has a deadline of one week or more, with penalties included in the course plan, up to 20% of the points can be removed.

For literature or written communication courses in the language of instruction, this percentage is 30%.

4.14 Class participation

Active participation within a course may be considered in the summative assessment when activity participation is part of the course's competencies and must be approved by the Department of Studies. If so, this must be mentioned in the course plan.

4.15 Submitting summative assignments

The assignments must be submitted on the date and time set by the teacher. After reaching an agreement with students, the teacher can change the terms for submitting an assignment. Each day an assignment is late results in a loss of 10% of the assignment's maximum grade, up to 30%, inclusive. On the fourth day, the grade shall be zero (0).

4.16 Keeping summative evaluations

Evaluations completed during the session must be handed back to the student within the prescribed deadlines (IPESA, section 4.10.1). The student always has the right to see their copy of the evaluation. However, the teacher may choose whether the student can keep their copy. If the teacher chooses to keep the copies, they must keep them for one year. The copies must be kept and destroyed confidentially.

Copies of final evaluations are kept by the teacher³ for a period of one (1) year. During this period, the Department of Studies will have access to these copies. During this period, students will be able to view their own copies of their evaluation. The copies must be kept and destroyed confidentially.

4.17 Use of student work

The teacher has the right to use student work for educational or promotional purposes with the student's consent. In such a case, the student and teacher must agree on whether to disclose the student's name.

³ For lecturers, copies must be kept at the coordinator's office.

The student has various rights of appeal, whether to request a review of their grades, to contest an accusation of plagiarism or cheating or for any other situation involving their learning evaluation. Please note that the grade may ultimately be maintained, or changed to a higher or lower grade.

5.1 Reviewing grades

5.1.1 Procedure during the session

During the session, the student must address their teacher about any disagreement concerning an evaluation no later than one week after the grade is received-

If the student is still unsatisfied after meeting with their teacher, they can submit a request for a grade review to the Department of Studies for this assessment, specifying in writing, the reasons for the request. This request must be made no later than two weeks after the grade is received. The teacher must explain their decision in writing and submit it to the Department of Studies.

5.1.2 Procedure at the end of the session

The student can also request a review of their final grade for a course. When the grade for an evaluation is reviewed, the grade may ultimately be maintained, or changed to a higher or lower grade. This revision exclusively affects the final evaluation.

- a) No later than the deadline indicated on the school portal, under the heading Review of Grades, the student may submit an application through the school portal in which they explain the reasons for their request and attach all the relevant documents.
- b) The request is automatically forwarded to the teacher concerned. The teacher must respond within three (3) business days of the deadline for submitting requests for grade reviews. The teacher must clearly explain the reasons for their decision in writing.

5.1.2.1 Conditions for a hearing with the Grade Review Committee
